"Hence the fool's paradise, the statesman's scheme, the air-built castle, and the golden dream."

Bucky Harris wins the 1928 championship. They're off at Tampa—way off!

We can not endorse Senator Dave Reed's bill for special 2-cent postage stamps to commemorate Washington's army at Valley Forge as we fear they could not be licked.

The haste with which Secretary Hoover gets out of the Wisconsin primary should be sufficiently discouraging to those who are trying to get him to take a plunge in Jim Watson's private swimmin' hole.

Maj. Hesse says the only thing he stands is lemon soda pop, so we're wrong again—we said it was ginger pop. The struggle after 100 per cent accuracy is very wearing.

Member of the Maryland legislature, and two of the Liberty League, are convicted in Baltimore of violation of the blue law. What d'ye mean, "Free State"?

A new and mysterious power has suddenly become manifest in the House for the first time since Uncle Joe Cannon was dethroned as Czar—somebody prevents Tom Blanton from making a speech.

But such are the laws of compensation, we suppose, that as one mighty force arises another sinks—the Court of Appeals turns down Pooh Bah McCarl. Things have come to a pretty pass in this country if our own private Mussolini can't dock the pay of a mere naval officer.

Speaking of unemployment in the United States how does Senator Wagner explain his long delay in making his maiden speech?

But just which one does Mr. Cherrington of the Antisaloon League have in mind when he speaks of a country that insists upon total abstinence?"

Measles prevents the sentencing of a Hagerstown man convicted of manslaughter. They were afraid that if they put him in jail he'd break out.

There is profound logic in Senator Borah's argument that prohibition has reduced unemployment—a man who has to pay $4.50 for 50 cents worth of whisky can't afford to be out of work.

In fact it is doubtless Volstead which has brought such unparalleled prosperity to the coal miners of Pennsylvania and the textile workers of New England.

We fail to become excited over the new story of the mystery of the Dauphin, Louis XVII, as we well recall that Huckleberry Finn located him on the world's most famous raft. As he informed the Duke of Bilgewater, he was the "rightful King of France," and we still remember how Jim's eyes bulged like two soup plates on a pantry shelf. As Huck explained, "Kings is kings, and you got to make allowances. Take them all around, they're a mighty ornery lot. It's the way they're raised."

Babe Ruth announces that today he will give up his mashie for a baseball bat, and the momentous piece of news is flashed from St. Petersburg. Atlanta picks up the palpitating tidings, and they are shot to New York. To every village and hamlet in the land they speed, and soon the cables and the radio are carrying the information to the remotest recesses of the civilized globe. Such is fame.

Speaking of Huck, and Jim, and the King and the Duke, the original of Tom Sawyer dies again at Tucson.

Coast Guard destroyer Cassin shells a British passenger and freight boat off Miami harbor, happily without loss of life, but no liquor is discovered when the vessel is searched. The first thing we know if the Coast Guard keeps on this country will be fighting another war of 1812 with reverse English.

The average candidacy at this season is probably what Pope means by "the fool's paradise, the statesman's scheme, the air-built castle, and the golden dream."

William H. Crane, who was playing in Washington when The Post was founded in 1877, is critically ill, aged 83. Never a great actor he was nevertheless painstaking in his art, and held a place on the stage far longer than many a more brilliant star whose genius flickered out as suddenly as it had burst into view.

But what is William G. McAdoo going to do for Senator Walsh to help him in Montana?

Clement 'Down and Out,'

Two Women Are Sent for to Dapper Inventor.

New York, March 5 (A.P.)—Sought in vain by the police of two States for a week for questioning in connection with the death of Miss Margaret Brown, burned to death February 20 near Bernardsville, N. J., "Dr." Louis Clement walked unrecognized into police headquarters today and gave himself up.

He asked to see Deputy Inspector Carey and was told to take a seat as that official was busy. When, after a few minutes, he was admitted to Carey's office he was able only to announce: "I am Clement," before the inspector eagerly interrupted him.

He was immediately closeted with detectives who were joined later by Capt. Lamb, of the New Jersey State Police. After the conference had progressed for some time it was announced that Clement probably would be taken to New Jersey for questioning by authorities there.

Not Linked With Killing.
Detectives, who had said repeatedly since starting their search for Clement that they had no information connecting him with Miss Brown's death, but hoped he might be able to give them valuable information, said that Clement gave them a frank recital of his movements on the day the Park avenue governess was slain. Search for Clement began when a friend of Miss Brown identified his picture as that of a man she had seen in the woman's company.

Clement told the police he had been living in cheap hotels and lodges in Manhattan and Brooklyn avoiding persons who knew him. He said he decided to surrender when he read in the newspapers that police were starting a canvas of hotels and lodging houses. He vigorously denied that he had known the slain governess, although he said he had known another "Miss Brown" eight years ago.

But just which one does Mr. Cherrington of the Antisaloon League have in mind when he speaks of a country that insists upon total abstinence?"

SEARCH FOR LIQUOR FAILS

Special to The Washington Post.

Miami, Fla., March 5 (A.P.)—Passengers scrambled into hatches and a panic threatened when the United States Coast Guard destroyer Cassins shelled the British passenger and freight boat Isle of June off Miami Harbor early this morning. No hits were scored, but eight shells screamed across the British vessel's bow.

Failure of the master of the Isle of June to heed a command to stop was given by Coast Guardsmen as the reason for the shooting. The craft, which passes between Nassau, Providence Island, Bahamas, and Miami, was seized when she came to her birth in Miami Harbor. A search, by Government authorities did not reveal any liquor or contraband cargo, it was announced.

Capt. William H. Wheeler of the Isle of June was arrested on a charge of failing to halt when commanded to do so by Coast Guard authority. The boat was released.

Capt. L. A. Oats, British vice consul, who stood by while the boat was searched and the master arrested, stated that he would make a formal report of the incident to Washington.

The shooting, according to members of the crew of the British registered

$16,500 Long Overdue, She Says, Under Agreement
Reached in 1923.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 5.—Following quickly his first blow in the Bainbridge Colby divorce suit, when the French courts denied Colby a divorce, Mrs. Nathalie S. Colby opened suit today in New York Supreme Court to collect money said to be long overdue on a separation agreement.

The action is to recover $16,500 she says is due her under an agreement entered into September 10, 1923, under which her husband agreed to pay her $1,500 a month. He has made no payments since May 1, 1927, Mrs. Colby charged in her complaint.

The couple were married in 1895 and lived together until they entered into the separation agreement. In April, 1927, Colby sailed for Paris to seek the divorce which was denied him February 26 last.

Facing Firing Squad,
He Writes Epitaph

Mexico City, March 5 (A.P.)—The epitaph, "Here Rests the Bandit Pedro Reyes," written by Reyes himself on the back of an old envelope as he faced a firing squad, was the last act of the "worst bandit in the Tampico oil fields." He was executed today along with half a dozen of his followers.

Federal troops captured Reyes near Tampico after he had been wounded and chased out of a hiding place in the mountains. He was charged with having killed a dozen men and his loot has been estimated at $100,000 pesos. Reyes operated for several years in the oil fields, attacking and robbing the camps of four foreign oil companies and occasionally holding up trains. His gang was held responsible also for several attacks on passenger trains or from Laredo.

HOOVER IS Pressed
TO ENTER HIS NAME
IN INDIANA PRIMARY

Conferences Are Held;
Secretary Must Decide
by Thursday.

FORCES OF LOWDEN
ALSO WANT TO FILE

Three-Cornered Fight Is Seen
With 33 Delegates and Prestige at Stake.

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

The question of whether Secretary of Commerce Hoover will go into the Indiana presidential primary has been revived by a series of discussions over the weekend with his friends from that State. He must make a decision by Thursday, the last day for filing, but it is regarded now as highly probable that he will leave the field to Senator Watson.

Among those urging him to enter and who took part in the weekend conferences are former Gov. Goodrich, E. M. Waschut, former chairman of the Republican State committee, and Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher of the Fort Wayne New Sentinel. Will Hayes is understood also to feel that a fight should be made.

Just as he was persuaded to enter Ohio, the Secretary is understood to have been assured of success in the Hoosier State. By getting a majority in the preference primary, it was pointed out, the State's entire delegation of 33 votes would be committed to him by law so long as his name is before the convention. Unless he does make a fight these 33 votes will be lost to him.

Three-Cornered Fight Seen.

On the other hand, should he enter, a three-cornered fight likely would result, as it is assumed Lowden would also enter. Senator Watson is the only entrant thus far and it is with considerable reluctance that the Lowden forces are leaving the field to him. Inasmuch as the senator is considered to be more friendly to the Dawes cause than to that of Lowden.

There is plenty of Lowden sentiment in the State, it is said, and the Lowden people do not like to let the State go by default. Nevertheless, they are not expected to make a fight unless the members of the commission were sufficiently in doubt that they likely will call upon Corporation Counsel W. B. Ford for an opinion on the legal point.

First groundwork was laid for his point by Clayton at the Thursday session of the merger hearing when he asked that an official representative of the North American Co. be subpoenaed to testify as to that corporation's holdings of stock in the local street car companies.

May Ask Legal Opinion.

If Clayton's position is sustained by the commission it may spell the end of the present merger effort. The end of the argument was not reached. Counsel for the companies rallied quickly to defend against the surprise attack. The debate will be resumed today. The lawyers for the traction interests tried to laugh Clayton's point away, but he stood his ground and it was indicated after the hearing that the members of the commission were sufficiently in doubt that they likely will call upon Corporation Counsel W. B. Ford for an opinion on the legal point.

Clayton Demands Witness.

The commission took his request under advisement and did not announce a ruling until yesterday, when John W. Childress, chairman, said that in 1926 the North American Co. had written a letter to the old Public Utilities Commission stating it owned 35,000 shares of Washington Railway

Explorer Discovers
Strange Wild Race

New York, March 5 (A.P.)—A visit to a mysterious race of warriors, possibly the descendants of South Sea Islanders who came to South America many centuries ago, was described by A. Hyatt Verrill of the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, on his return today from his sixtieth trip to South America.

Verrill said he found the tribe, numbering about 350 men and women, in almost impenetrable wilderness between Brazil and Bolivia. None of the tribe were clothing. Verrill said, and added, he saw no signs of long beards of the type commonly seen in the Solomon Islands. The tribe members are nature worshipers, he said.

Mr. Verrill said he was satisfied that Mr. Hoover's request could be complied with under the Wisconsin law respecting withdrawal from the election. The secretary declared that he would not wait for a formal opinion from the attorney general.

400 PRINCE GEORGES CITIZENS PUSH MASS ATTACK ON TAXATION

Mt. Rainier Property Owners
Appear Before Commissioners at Courthouse.

RECENT ASSESSMENTS DECLARED EXCESSIVE

County Assessor Woodward
Charged as Being Unqualified for Work.

More than 400 property owners in Mount Rainier, Md., and nearby communities appeared before the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday at the courthouse in Marlboro in massed protest against recent tax assessments which the citizens declared to be "excessive."

Charles B. Calvert, an attorney representing a large group of the grievous property owners in Mount Rainier, declared the increased taxation against property owners in the Seventeenth Maryland Congressional District, comprising Mount Rainier and other communities, would stifle the growth of that community which he said, has proved the mecca for Washington's overflow population during the last ten years.

Bird H. Dolby, president of the Mount Rainier Citizens Association and chairman of a committee of five appointed by the association to register the protest of its members against the tax assessments, charged C. H. Woodward, county assessor, as being "unguided" to act in this official capacity and urged the county commissioners to order reassessment of all property in Mount Rainier.

400 Gather for Hearing.

J. C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners, in answer to the protest of the citizens, held that the increase in tax assessments was due to the recent Maryland statute which requires all property to be assessed at 100 per cent of its real value. Blackwell said:

"The county commissioners have been sitting up late at night in an effort to make the protest holding out. If any one has a protest to make let him submit facts, and they will be given the greatest of consideration."

Long before 10 a.m. in the time set for the hearing, the protest holding out to the county commissioners had gathered in the corridors of the courthouse.

More than two score of the citizens were Washingtonians who own Maryland property. Many women were in the crowd. An available parking space near the courthouse was taken by 10 o'clock, and late arrivals were forced to park four or five blocks away.

Due to the small size of the commissioners' office, not more than 50 of the citizens could wedge their way into the room at one time. As the number of unable to have their grievances heard, were content to "put them in writing," as suggested by Blackwell, and have them considered in the future.

Cites Higher Depreciation.

Calvert submitted the following as specific reasons for protest by the citizens:

"First, that most of the houses constructed in this section (Mount Rainier) have been built within the last five years, at excessive building costs—coupled with the fact that there is a gradual depreciation of value of such buildings, which depreciation will increase with the coming years."

"Secondly, that the price at which property has been sold and held within the past five years is excessive, being far above the market supply of purchasable property and the lack of property that could be rented at a fair price, which shortage is now at an end, in that there is a large supply of purchasable property now on the market and rentable property may be easily had at least half a fair return on such property, all of which has greatly depreciated values in this section."

Sales Made on Rent Basis.

"Third, that prices at which property has sold in this section within the last five years are not standard of value, in that almost all sales now have been on a almost every cash payment or no cash payment at all and monthly payments equivalent in amount to rent."

"Fourth, that on account of in-

MONTGOMERY TRIAL OF SUIT TO AFFECT 35,000 LAND OWNERS

Case Tests Sanitary Commission's Right to Make Front Foot Assessments.

More than 35,000 property owners in Montgomery and Prince George Counties will be affected by and are watching with interest the forthcoming decision of Judge Robert Peter in a suit at Rockville testing the right of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to impose certain front-foot assessments against her property. After hearing the arguments he directed the attorneys for both sides to submit briefs.

In 1924, John G. Scrivener, of Kensington, filed a suit in the Maryland Court of Appeals upholding the decision of a circuit court in this case, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission obtained passage of a bill by the Maryland Legislature authorizing the sanitary commission to levy and collect increased assessments.

Through his attorneys, Wilson L. Townsend, of Washington; F. R. Noel, of Kensington, and William C. Sullivan, of Washington and Kensington, Mrs. Noel declared the legislative action unconstitutional, as it usurps judicial power and interferes with the courts. Through his attorneys, T. Hoyt and Duckett and Charles W. Clagett, the commission held the legislative enactment to be legal because it makes the assessment a legislative matter.

Recalls Gas Co. Case.

He then cited that several years ago the courts sustained the combination in ruling that members of the board of directors of the Washington Gas Light Co. should not keep stock in the gas light company or the Georgetown Gas Light Co. and outlined the case of the North American Co.'s purchase of the local bus company's stock. He said that the North American Co. admitted in its letter to the commission that it had held stock in considerably more Washington Railway & Electric Co. stock than required for the commission to enter a proceeding to cause it to dispose of the shares and added: "The same letter states that the New York company bought its bus company stock solely to promote eventual unification of the transit properties in Washington. We are interested to know if that is the company's sole interest and just what plan it has."

The commission's advertising probably will report the result of its decision after a thorough study, as to the extent of the proposed advertising campaign. The telephone rate question will also be the subject of discussion, as will be the question of the annual clean-up of the Bethesda district.

Last year under the direction of Dr. Washington Waters, chairman, the clean-up committee, aided by the Bethesda Boy Scouts, attained great success in its efforts to rid the district of trash nuisances.

Holds Law Was Violated.

A chorus of affirmatives arose from the "representatives of the car companies."

"Very well then," responded Clayton, "call attention to the fact that for it to do so would be another illegal act and I call attention to the fact of the violation of the law that has already taken place."

On the other side of the table demanded that Clayton read the last street car merger act and he did so, revealing that Congress authorized local street car companies to merge by formation of a new company to acquire all. The second section carries a specific repeal of the prohibitions of the Sherman antitrust law.

Lame Duck Measure
Given Right of Way

(Associated Press.)

The Norris-White constitutional amendment to change the date for the meeting of Congress to do away with the lame duck session was given right of way yesterday by the House judiciary subcommittee by Arthur J. Marah, former member of the New York Cotton Exchange, as attempting to control the cotton markets of the country.

The two firms Marah named were Andrew C. Jackson Co. of Houston, Tex., and George H. McFadden & Bros., of Philadelphia. He alleged that they concentrated on the New York Exchange a reserve supply of what he said was inferior cotton, ranging from 185,000 to 200,000 bales, and then sold it to traders who wanted to sell it at a loss. Marah, who was served by the Senate cotton committee, urged approval by the subcommittee of the Rankin bill, which would make manipulations a violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

Under the bill members would be able to "control the market during the depression."

Today the wife of the President paid her usual afternoon and afternoon visits to the hospital, taking a bouquet of fresh flowers in the morning and spending almost four hours at her bedside.

Physicians said Mrs. Goodhue was bright and cheerful and apparently had been benefited greatly from her daughter's visit.

FATHER WHO SLEW HIS 2 SMALL SONS TO PLEAD INSANITY

Chisholm Collapses as He Takes Witness Stand at Inquest Into Drownings.

ATTORNEY CALLS MAN SHELL-SHOCK VICTIM

Prisoner Asks for Life in Prison but Attempts to Commit Suicide in Cell.

Indiana Harbor, Ind., March 5 (A.P.)—Insanity will be George Allen Chisholm's defense when he faces trial for the murder of his sons, George, Jr., 9, and Edgar, 6, whom he drowned in an Indiana Harbor ship canal.

Arraigned today on two charges of murder, Chisholm was ordered held to the grand jury. He appeared in municipal court and appealed as the only witness at economic inquiry here to be in East Chicago, Ind., so worn from loss of sleep and weeping that he had to be supported between two officers.

Called to the witness stand at the inquest here into the death of little George, Chisholm collapsed and stampeded to the floor. Revived, he tried to relate anew the gruesome details of a previous written confession—how he tricked the youngsters into playing cowboy and lassoing themselves with loops of wire which prevented death struggles when he enticed them to the canal and pushed them in.

Called Psychopathic Case.
His attorney, Joe Conroy, of Hammond, halted him, declaring the trembling, fear-ridden man need not give statements which might incriminate him.

"It is a plain psychopathic case," said Conroy.

The man is crazy. He was shell-shocked and gassed while with the Canadian army three years in the World War."

Chisholm asserted his wish to face trial immediately, plead guilty, and receive a sentence of life imprisonment. He seemed to abject fear of death and retorted, "I'm not afraid to die." He said that many times in recent days he had tried to nerve himself to a fatal leap.

Chisholm today begged to be permitted to see Mrs. Helen Lawrence, the woman with whom he lived and whose nagging, he said, drove him to do away with the lads. His wish was granted.

"Oh, George," screamed Mrs. Lawrence, and she fainted when she saw him.

Tried to Kill Himself.

Chisholm attempted suicide last night after he had been brought here from the East Chicago jail to avert threatened mob violence.

At the time he built the string of which he used in an effort to pierce his throat, was the weapon Chisholm employed Police Capt. Edward Knight, who had just locked Chisholm in a cell, turned back on a sudden impulse in time to witness the suicide attempt.

"I told him everything I knew," he wept hysterically.

A crowd had gathered around the East Chicago jail yesterday when officers decided the prisoner should be removed to prevent violence.

Local Legislature Called.

Des Moines, March 5 (A.P.)—The Iowa Legislature was called in extraordinary session today to consider a proposal to submit to the people the question of authorizing issuance of $100,000,000 in State bonds for highway improvement, contemplating the completion of the primary road system in six years.

A. P. MOORE ACQUIRES TWO HEARST TABLOIDS

Former Ambassador Reenters Journalism With Policy of "Liberal Patriotism."

New York, March 5 (A.P.)—Alexander P. Moore, former ambassador to Spain and former publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, will reenter the newspaper publishing business with two tabloids—the New York Daily Mirror and the Boston Advertiser. Purchase of the papers by the Hearst Hearst organization was completed today.

Mr. Moore announced the purchase in the presence of Victor Watson, managing editor of the Mirror. Mr. Moore said he may add to his news enterprises with the tabloid as the field of development which may be one of the cities in which he may purchase a paper, it was intimated.

In a statement, Mr. Moore said:

"In public affairs a liberal patriotism, as opposed to restricted partisanship, will be the chief policy of my new publications."

Mr. Moore added opinion that America is the best governed country in the world will not blind the Mirror to errors in legislation or unjust administration of laws. There will be positive and courageous criticism of everything that concerns the public welfare of the rights of the individual.

Mr. Moore declared there would be no radical changes in the personnel of the two papers.

Strike at Gastonia Mill.

Gaston, N. C., March 5 (A.P.)—The weavers working in the Loray Textile Mills, numbering approximately 50 men, went on strike here today as a result of a cut in wages made by the company on Saturday. Workers said that wages had been gradually reduced, and that they were only about 40 cents per hour above those paid by the former four mills, so that the number of looms per man had been increased from six and eight to ten to twelve.

W. V. Hodges, Lawyer and New Yorker, Called; Party Books to Be Bared.

(Associated Press)

Financial affairs of the Republican national committee after the 1920 presidential campaign are to be inquired into again Thursday by the Senate Teapot Dome committee, which is endeavoring to trace all the $600,000 Liberty bond profits of the extinct Continental Trading Co. of Canada.

Summons were issued yesterday for five new witnesses. James A. Patten, Chicago grain merchant; B. Eckhart, Chicago miller; and his son, Percy William V. Hodges, of Denver, treasurer of the Republican national committee and M. J. Pessin, New York advertising man.

Patten and the Eckharts are to be questioned about their membership in the Democratic party, and whether they gave any of the $260,000 in Liberty bonds, which Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican committee, testified last week had been advanced by Harry F. Sinclair in 1920 after he had sold the Teapot Dome oil and gas reserve in Wyoming from Albert B. Fall, then Interior Secretary.

Believes Bonds Sold on Market.

Hays told the Senate investigators that $60,000 of these bonds had been sent to the late Fred W. Upton, then treasurer of the Republican national committee, to be used in extinguishing the deficit which the Republican organization had incurred in its 1920 campaign. Senator Walsh (Democrat) Montana, prosecutor of the investigation, believes Upton turned the bonds over to a number of men in Chicago, who sold them on the open market and pocketed contributions to the Republican party chest.

Hodges is directed to bring all of the books in records of the Republican national committee showing contributions not only by Sinclair, but by a number of other party leaders to contribute sums, so that the deficit might be wiped out before the beginning of the 1924 presidential campaign.

Methodists Hear New York's Mayor

New York, March 5 (A.P.)—It was "dark night" at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church last night and the speaker of the evening was Mayor James J. Walker, who talked on tolerance, transit and heaven and got acquainted with the Methodists.

"I never believed," he said at one time, "there was an underworld in all the Methodists in the world I have heard tonight. I had at one time believed a Methodist to be a person who did not know how to laugh. Where did I get this idea? Why should I have had this conception about people I didn't know?"

Mayor Walker said there was no religious intolerance in Ireland. "Religious prejudice exists in America, but not in Ireland," he said.

Carnegie Annuities Declared Taxable

(Associated Press)

Beneficiaries under the will of the late Andrew Carnegie, who include Chief Justice Taft, were declared yesterday by the Supreme Court to be liable for federal income tax on the annuities they receive. The decision of lower courts was affirmed.

The case was brought by John W. Beatty, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Besides the Chief Justice, there are about 50 other beneficiaries, including Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Cleveland, David Lloyd George and other prominent persons.

Their annuities were paid from interest on United States Steel Corporation bonds. Beatty contended that the annuity was an untaxable gift.

Walsh Is Facing Struggle For Own State Delegates

Smith Men Seen in Control of Selection—Votes May Be Cast for Senator on Two Ballots to Preserve a Semblance of Harmony.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, March 5.—The Democratic State committee received word today from Butte, Mont., that the friends of Gov. Smith, who have been busy all winter working up sentiment for him in that State, will fight the supporters of Senator Walsh, so as to preserve harmony, but after such complimentary balloting they are to go to Smith. Walsh, moreover, is not yet able to assent to the plan, as Senator Walsh is as dry as Smith is wet, and he will demand the support from the delegates usually accorded to a favorite son, which is another way of saying that they will not be ready to give up Smith.

J. Bruce Kremer, Democratic national committeeman, is for Smith, and so is Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Senator Walsh's colleague in the Senate. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Senator Walsh's colleague in the Senate.

Party Must Be Progressive to Win, Senator Says; As-sails Coolidge.

Unless the Democratic party becomes progressive and liberal, it will be wiped off the political map, Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana predicted yesterday, after a speech before the Montana National Democratic Club at 1525 New Hampshire avenue. He avoided any reference to candidates in the coming presidential campaign. Senator Wheeler declared there could be no doubt of the success of the Democratic party next November if it "would draft a platform along progressive lines, and name candidates in sympathy with such a stand." He expressed the hope that the Democrats "won't let big business dominate another convention."

Attacking President Coolidge, whom he charged with negligence in punishing corruption in the postal service, Senator Wheeler insisted that the Chief Executive had violated the spirit of the law in his appointments to the Interstate Commerce, Tariff, and Revenue committees.

He directed to bring all of the books in records of the Republican national committee showing contributions not only by Sinclair, but by a number of other party leaders to contribute sums, so that the deficit might be wiped out before the beginning of the 1924 presidential campaign.

KEystone PRIMARY BALLOTS ARE MINUS PRESIDENCY NAMES

No Candidates File Petitions for Printing as Time Limit Expires.

VOTERS' PREFERENCES PERMITTED, HOWEVER

Senator Reed's Renomination Opposed by Adams as Wet and Prolabor.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 5 (A.P.)—No candidates will have their names on the ballots at the Pennsylvania primary election on April 28. The last day for filing petitions for any presidential aspirants was yesterday.

Eugene C. Bonelli, of Philadelphia, Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania at the last election, and Francis E. Miller, of Lancaster, and G. Smith of New York, as the Democratic choice appeared on delegates' petitions filed yesterday.

Eugene C. Bonelli, of Philadelphia, Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania at the last election, and Francis E. Miller, of Lancaster, and G. Smith of New York, as the Democratic choice appeared on delegates' petitions filed yesterday.

George C. Shoemaker, of Lancaster, filed as a delegate from the Tenth District, pledged to support Hoover.

Other Delegates Unpledged.

Other delegates' petitions state either that they are pledged to support the popular choice for President or that they are independent.

The Republican party has two contestants for State officers on its hands, but leaders of the party professed not to regard them seriously. In opposition to United States Senator David A. Reed, from the 13th district, S. Adams came out as a wet, pro-labor candidate, and William O. Harper, Philadelphia, also filed. Against Charles A. Waters, the organization choice for auditor general, Frank B. Thomson, of Philadelphia, hittook an unsuccessful campaign.

Speaking to the State Democratic committee, the senator talked "frankly" about the prohibition issue.

"If we write out difference in the platform, he told the committee, "we file the petition of these candidates for the party, the police, the continuation of the Republican party in power. Drop the controversial issues within the party."

Repeating that he stood for law enforcement of all laws on the books, the Mississippian said, "the first question is whether this Government is going to be run by a few corrupt people."

Banks Seek Treasury Rule on Soviet Gold

(Associated Press)

Representatives of the Equitable Trust Co. of New York yesterday conferred with Treasury officials on the status of the $45,000,000 of Russian gold held in New York awaiting a Treasury decision on whether the mint will purchase the gold in view of the 1920 embargo placed on Russian gold imports.

The Equitable Trust Co. holds one-half of the gold and the Chase National Bank the other. The bankers stated that debt in relation to the gold was costing a large sum in interest. Treasury officials informed them that they were unable to take action until the Attorney General submits an opinion on the subject.

Britain Faces Desert War Against Arabian Tribesmen

King of Hedjaz Joins Drive on "Infidels" of Kuwait, Irak and Transjordania, which Are Under Care of London—20,000 Fighters Ready.

London, March 5 (A.P.)—Great Britain is facing another Sudan.

Abdul Aziz Ibn Saud, sultan of Nejd and self-styled king of the Hedjaz who, in 1924, had brought the Wahabi dynasty from exile to a dominant position in Arabia and aden, still fights on behalf of the British mandate, having seemingly changed this attitude.

It was this same Ibn Saud who, in December, 1925, overthrew the last remnant of the Kingdom of Hedjaz created as a part of the allied movement against Turkey in the World War.

Ibn Saud himself played mainly a negative role in the big conflict. He allied himself with Great Britain, but was held in check by Ibn Rashid, who is in charge of the Turks.

At the small British warships in Kuwait Bay at the head of the Persian Gulf, a British air force in Irak, and scattered outposts are confronted with the task of putting in check the most powerful combatant tribes in Arabia. These fighters of the desert are filled with reforming zeal and a contempt for death comparable only with the fanaticism of the Nadhists of Sudan.

Messengers from Kuwait who have just arrived at Basra, Irak, report that Ibn Saud told a recent conference of tribesmen that finding shatter his hopes of bringing back the "infidels" of Kuwait, Irak and Transjordania to Islam by peaceful methods, he had decided to appeal to the sword.

Hitherto Ibn Saud has been friendly toward the British and only a year ago signed a treaty with them. But reprisals by the Irak air force against Arabian frontier raiders, resulting in deaths, apparently caused the go-back, seemingly changed this attitude.

It was this same Ibn Saud who, in December, 1925, overthrew the last remnant of the Kingdom of Hedjaz created as a part of the allied movement against Turkey in the World War.

Ibn Saud himself played mainly a negative role in the big conflict. He allied himself with Great Britain, but was held in check by Ibn Rashid, who is in charge of the Turks.

INTOLERANCE.

Several prominent citizens have recently advertised their "tolerance" by declaring that, while they are Protestants, they favor the nomination and election of Gov. Smith, notwithstanding the fact that he is a Catholic. They insist that the question of a man's religion should not enter into the campaign, and that any man conspicuously fit to be President can be depended upon to perform his duties conscientiously, whatever his own religious belief may be.

This is sound common sense and good Americanism. Why is it not applicable to liquor as well as religion?

There is more intolerance in the United States in respect to the eighteenth amendment than in respect to religion. No doubt Bro. Borah prides himself upon his lack of intolerance in religious matters, although, strangely enough, he has overlooked the opportunity to get a little advertising on that point. But he is exaggerating the liquor question to an absurd degree, by trying to pin down all candidates to a commitment that they favor a special pronouncement in party platforms in favor of the enforcement of the Volstead act. Why not a special pronouncement in favor of the enforcement of the law against smuggling drugs and criminal aliens, or of the law against mail frauds and robberies?

Senator Reed, of Missouri, very properly suggests that there is something more in this campaign than a bottle of whisky and a schooner of beer. But millions of intolerant Americans do not think so. They are obsessed by the idea that no man is fit to be President unless he will swear beforehand that enforcement of the Volstead law shall be made the most important policy of his administration. They seem to regard indifference to the subject as equivalent to treason to the United States. If a candidate is engrossed in really important political issues they charge him with cowardice and evasion on the subject of prohibition. Yet they are ready to entrust the Government to any man who proves himself a bigot on the liquor question, no matter what his views may be on political issues.

Americans despise a man who harps upon religion in politics, and proudly proclaim that they do not share his intolerance. Yet many of them harp upon the liquor question with as much intolerance and unfairness as was ever shown by a Spanish inquisitor.

The United States would make itself the laughing stock of the world if it should elect a President solely because he never took a drink of liquor and made prohibition both his religion and his politics. A President possessing this distorted and intolerant opinion on one subject would be incompetent to deal with other subjects. He would very probably embroil the country with foreign governments in some foolish controversy pertaining to liquor, and no doubt he would misuse his powers by employing the Army and Navy to enforce the Volstead law. He would do infinitely more mischief than a religious bigot could do, for he would be acting in the name of the law, whereas there is no law which a religious zealot could invoke as justification for his acts.

No man should be nominated for President who lacks a comprehensive knowledge of national problems, or who has demonstrated that he favors the enforcement of one law more than another. The country does not want a zealot in the White House, whether his mania takes the form of religion, atheism, pacifism, jingoism, Volsteadism, or anti-Volsteadism.

THE QUEST FOR MANGANESE.

A successful iron blast furnace upon an experimental scale, large enough to insure duplication of the processes which mark the operations of a standard furnace and yet small enough for each stage of the operation to be fully observed, is providing the United States Bureau of Mines opportunity to study methods for separating manganese from the iron ores of northern Minnesota. The Minnesota ores are manganiiferous in a large degree, but the processes of extraction that have been followed are too costly. Superintendent Joseph and his associates of the Bureau of Mines, having solved other difficult problems of low-grade ores, are attacking the extraction of manganese with the weapons of experience.

MANGANESE.

Coal mining today is much the same process that it was a decade ago. Progress has been made in some details, but improved methods in coal mining, as a general thing, have not followed those of other industries. Consequently there have been repeated disasters. Rescue work today is better organized than it was formerly, but once disaster has struck deep in the earth few return to tell the story.

Coal mining is, and always will be, fundamentally dangerous. Coal is of itself, explosive, and the spark struck by a metal tool as it meets rock may been attended with dramatic circumstance. It may be definitely linked up with the bringing on of civil strife. Belief that in the hills about Harper's Ferry could be mined manganese in quantities was the factor which gave to John Brown his excuse for moving thither with members of his band in the guise of prospectors. Under cover of this pretext he planned his descent upon the Government artillery works there located.

Virginia, then and now, has been known as a source of manganese; one of the largest mines still worked, being located in Augusta County. Should the extractive process prove successful, reliance upon scattered pockets of the mineral will give way to assurance of a settled source of supply.

TEXAS POLITICS.

Houston and Texas appear still to be dazed as the result of the campaign which led to the selection of Houston as the meeting place of the Democratic national convention. Leaders in the State, after casting about in all directions for a man to whom they should give their delegates, have about reached the conclusion that they can do no better than instruct for Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist, who conceived and carried out the idea of making his home city the Democratic mecca.

There are a few other considerations, not quite as flattering to Mr. Jones, that enter into the equation. Militant Texas drys, according to reports from that State, have launched a considerable movement not to instruct for any one of the leading candidates, but to instruct against Smith, Reed and Kitchie. The political chieftains, quite naturally, are averse to taking any such positive action against men, any one of whom might prove to be the nominee. They would much prefer an un instructed delegation; but suggestions of this sort fail to meet with the approval of the drys.

Many Texas Democrats thought at one time they might be able to center the strength of the State on Gov. Dan Moody. The effort to make a national figure out of the young chief executive has not succeeded. He and his friends have decided that his future will be best served by remaining in the gubernatorial mansion, and they have abandoned any hope of nation-wide recognition for a few more years. Out of this stalemate of opinion has grown the movement designed to compliment Mr. Jones. He is man of other accomplishments than his rather remarkable coup in bringing the Democrats to Houston. The State as a whole will be ready to support him through the early ballots, and by that time Texas will be in a position to see which way the political wind is blowing and vote accordingly.

FIREWORKS REGULATIONS.

The District Commissioners have acted wisely in liberalizing the police regulations governing the sale and use of fireworks. The new regulation specifically exempts such pieces as sparklers, torches, box-fire, fountains, dip sticks, colored light and toy pistols of friction or automatic type, which heretofore have been under ban. The Commissioners admit that experience has indicated the absolute impossibility of enforcing the old regulations.

Washington's safe and sane observance of the Fourth of July has been more or less of a joke. Because fireworks of every sort have been banned only in the District, the loudest and most dangerous types have been bootlegged in, and Independence Day has been safe and sane in name only. Now that the ban has been lifted on all except the more dangerous kinds, it should be easy to keep the situation under control.

The new regulation should be regarded as temporary. It is inevitable that before long jurisdictions that permit the sale and use of all types of fireworks will make certain restrictions. The local situation has been governed largely by the regulations that exist in neighboring States.

A TRANS-SAHARAN RAILROAD.

The problem of constructing a railroad across the Sahara has engaged attention in France for a good many years. So far, however, little progress has been made, even with the preliminaries. Before the war, an expedition to survey a possible route was sent out by the Societe de Geographie, and it is only recently, on account of the interest caused by the revival of the project, that its reports were published. The route surveyed by this body ran from Southern Algeria to Lake Chad. The country encountered was difficult enough, being largely duneland with profuse growth of tropical shrub, and no alternative route at that time presented itself.

Within the last few weeks steps that promise an ultimate advance, have been taken in this matter. The French cabinet authorized the minister of public works to lay before the chamber of deputies a measure empowering the creation of a committee to take up fresh the question of building a railroad across the Sahara. This committee, composed of representatives of colonial and railroad interests, is to complete its investigations within eighteen months. It is to consider the financial resources that can be drawn upon, as well as engineering problems in general, and in particular the sort of traction to be used in view of the scarcity of water. The French government itself regards the construction of such a railroad as much more than an economic problem, and as having military and strategic aspects also, for in time of war the line could be used to help in transporting French colonial troops from West Africa.

The action of the Union Coloniale in developing the benevolent cooperation of the European powers in all lands where colonies exist, and particularly in Africa, where the territories of various powers intersect, will probably have an important bearing on the foreign attitude toward the Sahara railroad. At all events, the signs are that business is at least really meant in this gigantic project.

MINING WITH GAS.

Coal mining today is much the same process that it was a decade ago. Progress has been made in some details, but improved methods in coal mining, as a general thing, have not followed those of other industries. Consequently there have been repeated disasters. Rescue work today is better organized than it was formerly, but once disaster has struck deep in the earth few return to tell the story.

Coal mining is, and always will be, fundamentally dangerous. Coal is of itself, explosive, and the spark struck by a metal tool as it meets rock may serve to set off an explosion. There is more danger, however, in the use of explosives to break the coal from the working face, although so far there has seemed to be no substitute method of dislodging. Recent experiments with compressed and frozen liquid carbonic gas, however, are said to promise an important forward step in the elimination of this hazard.

The gas, contained in a steel shell 29 inches long, is inserted in a 4-inch drill hole in the coal. When placed in the shell the gas is below freezing point and has a pressure of 2,000 pounds to the square inch. By means of an electric fuse within the shell the temperature of the gas is increased until its pressure becomes about 20,000 pounds to the square inch, whereupon a plug of soft metal gives way, releasing the gas and dislodging the coal.

The gas-shell system apparently has many advantages. It produces, it is said, an increased lump-coal yield of from 10 to 15 per cent, makes possible a reduction in timbering, eliminates roof fracture and removes all danger of an explosion, thereby permitting the fine slack to be loaded with the lump coal instead of having to load out the fine dust before "shooting." It has been proved further that the amount of carbonic acid gas left in the air after a discharge is so negligible as to be harmless.

MISUSING THE SMITHSONIAN.

The secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is making overtures to Orville Wright in the hope of inducing Mr. Wright to deposit in the National Museum the airplane in which he accomplished human flight for the first time in the world's history. Dr. Abbot offers to change the label on the Langley plane, so that the Smithsonian will no longer be in the position of intimating that the Langley machine, and not the Wright machine, is the first successful airplane.

It is well for the Smithsonian to withdraw from its untenable position, but it should do so wholeheartedly and without reservation, instead of trying to draw Mr. Wright into a statement that he recognizes that the withdrawal of the misleading label "is not a confession of error, but a gesture of good will." Mr. Wright very properly refuses to make such a statement. On the contrary, he states that he will not consider the proposition "until the Smithsonian expresses a willingness to correct the misstatements they have broadcast in their publications for years."

The first airplane that ever carried a man in sustained flight was the Wright machine, and Orville Wright was the man who flew. There are thousands of individuals in Washington who can testify to this fact, as eyewitnesses. Many of these individuals also saw the Langley machine in action at Widewater, and can testify that it did not carry a man in sustained flight. A coterie of Smithsonian highbrows therewith endeavored for years to make it appear that the Langley plane "was capable of sustained flight," and by innuendo and otherwise tried to make history a lie.

The world long ago passed judgment on this case. The Smithsonian Institution has been grossly misused, and its prestige has been greatly impaired by parties who have used its authority in the endeavor to perpetuate a falsehood. Nothing is to be gained by the present authorities of the Smithsonian to elting to error. They should "come clean" by admitting the error and by recognizing what all the world knows to be true.

VITAMIN F.

Some time ago a noted experimental psychologist stated that he would decline to put forth any more definite views with respect to behaviorism in psychology until the scientists had furnished fuller information as to the functions of the ductless glands. He held that the entire field of human behavior is reflected in the effects which are produced upon the life processes and upon the neutral action of the organism by the glandular secretions, of which so much yet remains to be made known.

There is evidence of the widest interest upon the part of the laboratory experimentors, as shown by the announcement in behalf of Dr. Herbert M. Evans, head of the department of anatomy of the University of California. A new vitamin—the mysterious class of energies which answer in the body's action to the spark of a motor—is announced. It is Vitamin F, which has glandular effect.

It is claimed for this new vitamin that it may be made to provide an essential element for the growth of animals and the stimulation of the life forces. Opinion in some quarters is veering to the view that man literally does not live by bread alone, but by actuating forces which are quite apart from anything that food contributes; that, in fact, the time may arrive when it will be shown that food consumption is sometimes an interference rather than a furtherance of ideal organic development.

Dr. Evans is reported as saying that lettuce and liver are rich in this particular vitamin ingredient. Whatever other result may ensue, it may be expected that decoctions of lettuce and liver may presently figure largely in the advertisements of producing concerns. Life and its lengthening have universal appeal.

According to a survey made public by the Chain Store Research Bureau but 18 per cent of the annual volume of $2,356,250,000, or approximately $425,000,000, will be realized by the sale of private brands by the grocery chain organization, while the remaining 82 per cent, or $1,931,250,000, represents sales of nationally advertised products. The power of advertising needs no more substantial proof than is presented by these figures.

The official census of the Soviet Union indicates a total population of nearly 147,000,000, of which Russians form only 53 per cent. In the six states of the U. S. S. R. there are no less than 577 different tribes speaking 150 distinctly designated languages. In a nation composed of so many diverse types and tongues with an enormous preponderance of illiteracy, it is not surprising that a comparative handful of doctrinaire holding the reins of power can misgovern the country.

Country editors say "we" just as Lindy does, being similarly situated; but it's the pay roll that keeps them up in the air.

It has been proved further that the amount of carbonic acid gas left in the air after a discharge is so negligible as to be harmless.

The gas-shell system apparently has many advantages. It produces, it is said, an increased lump-coal yield of from 10 to 15 per cent, makes possible a reduction in timbering, eliminates roof fracture and removes all danger of an explosion, thereby permitting the fine slack to be loaded with the lump coal instead of having to load out the fine dust before "shooting." It has been proved further that the amount of carbonic acid gas left in the air after a discharge is so negligible as to be harmless.

COOKING SCHOOL NEWS

What tasting showed Mrs. Betty Kelly about

Fried Foods

We suggested to housekeepers that they taste Crisco—just as it comes from the can. Mrs. Betty Kelly wrote us how agreeably she was surprised when she made this test. But read her letter.

"I always thought that a cooking fat would be rather unpleasant to taste, but after reading your suggestion I decided just to try it myself."

"What a real surprise I got when I tasted Crisco. It is so good—such a fresh, pure taste."

"And the fact that Crisco does not smoke or make unpleasant odors in the kitchen makes it wonderful for deep frying."

If you have never tasted Crisco, we suggest that you do so. See if you do not get the same pleasant feeling that Mrs. Kelly did. We believe you'll understand then why Crisco's sweet taste makes such an improvement in the flavor of your fried foods, cakes, biscuits and pies.

Try some of the recipes for fried foods given below. Just notice how the delicate, sweet flavor of Crisco has brought out to best advantage the natural flavors of these fried foods.

Fried Oysters Supreme

You can use all milk but the ketchup gives a tasty flavor. Don't be afraid to fry doughnuts in the same Crisco because it is good to fry the oysters. They will not taste of the oysters or anything else you may have fried. And neither will the oysters lose their delicate flavor if they are fried in Crisco which has been used for frying other foods.

1/2 cup flour 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup ketchup Cracker dust or fine
2 dozen oysters dried bread crumbs
3/4 teaspoon salt

Mix flour and ketchup together, stir in milk slowly. Add salt. Drop each oyster into this batter, then roll in cracker dust or bread crumbs. Drop in deep kettle of hot Crisco 375° to 385° F. or when a small piece of bread browns in 40 seconds. Fry until a rich brown, 2 or 3 minutes. Serve very hot.

(All measurements level.)

Fricadellen

Served with creamed potatoes, this will make a really fine luncheon or dinner dish, by adding either vegetables or a salad. You can easily put them together while doing up the morning work and fry, in hot deep Crisco in two minutes at meal time.

2 cups cold cooked beef, chopped 2 slices bacon, chopped
1 tablespoon minced 2 teaspoons lemon juice
onion, minced 2 tablespoons parsley,
2 beaten eggs 2 tablespoons tomato
1 teaspoon salt ketchup

Mix all together. Shape into balls. Drop in hot Crisco 360° F. or when a small piece of bread browns in 60 seconds. Fry until brown. Serve with tomato, cream or brown sauce. Serves 4 to 5 people.

(All measurements level.)

Crisco was used by Mrs. Frances Northcross in The Post Cooking School conducted recently.

Lenore Ulric Stages
A Harlem Melodrama

"Lulu Belle," Slice of Life in New York's Black Belt, Played on National Boards—David Belasco's
Master Hand Seen in Staging.

David Belasco presents Lenore Ulric in "Lulu Belle," in a play in our theater by Edward Sheldon in Clifton MacBride's Settings by Joseph Wicks. At the National Theater.

Of all the sad, sordid shafts of sensationalism shot from Broadway, "Lulu Belle," harbored here for the week, tops the list. Unless the race goes completely crazy, demands and gets a never and lower type of jazz melodrama, this particular work should suffice for all time to come. There has never been anything quite like it on the stage, and probably never will be again. Such things happen now and then in real life. When they do, and end with murder, as this does, they get short news notices in the papers because of the type of people who enact the scene.

Added and dressed for the stage in the true Belascan manner, which means that the old master used every ounce of cunning in his system, "Lulu Belle" throws just enough glamor and glitter in the eyes of the unwary to catch them off guard and pass for drama. In truth, it is a farce drama in "Lulu Belle" than there is in the flash of lightning and the clap of thunder; merely a series of flashy episodes, terrific noise-making and a murder. They will tell you of course, that this is a slice of life; life as it is led in the colored belt of Harlem. "Well," the answer is, "What of it?"

Certainly, the career of "Lulu Belle," the Amazonian jazz baby of the black bottom, who vamps, first, a best man on his way to a wedding, luring him from the church, then getting him after her, then a prize-fight champion in the making, then a French viscount, has its parallel in many quarters on the globe. The novelty here is, supposedly, that a lady of highly colored hue should have such a high-toned career as a comedy and a description. Well, it has been done though doubtful, of course, if any actual kaleidoscopic screenings of night life compare with the finished article produced on the stage by Miss Lenore Ulric. She has the spotlight all the way through, against a background of color. The supporting cast is made up mostly of negroes.

The authors of the play get off to a realistic start by setting their first act on the sidewalks of San Juan Hill, the downtown colored district of New York. It's there that Lulu Belle meets her, and "wicks" her off to a wedding party at a Harlem boarding house, where Lulu and her heart's desire have ensconced themselves.

Then Lulu goes to a downtown cabaret. There Lulu meets a heavyweight champion, a stabling affray, and the discarded lover goes to Sing Sing, while Lulu Belle lights on a Frenchman slumming with a party of Americans.

In Paris. Five years later, after the stretch at Ossining has been done and accounted for, the principals all meet once more in the sumptuous boudoir of Lulu Belle, on the Avenue des Champs Elysées.

And there, in a room filled with

Lenore Ulric starts to throw the furniture around that apartment in a desperate effort to get away from her crazed lover, who pursues her with a revolver in his hand and death in his eye. There is nothing left to do but draw a kindly curtain. The play is over.

OVATION GREETS LEADER OF SYMPHONY CONCERT

Koussevitzky Charms Audience With Skill in Handling Brahms Numbers.

RAVEL WORK APPLAUSED

Washington music lovers confirmed their previous high opinion of Serge Koussevitzky as an orchestral leader when the famous Russian musician led the Boston Symphony Orchestra in a brilliant concert yesterday at Poll's Theater.

The representative audience which packed the house grew more and more enthusiastic as the program progressed to its magnificent climax—"The Symphony No. 1 in C Minor" by Brahms. Conducting Koussevitzky was given an ovation when he walked to the conductor's stand to open the program. This was Handel's "Concerto Grossino No. 5 in D Major for String Orchestra." The soloists heard during this classic number were: violins—Richard Burgin, Julius Rostropovitch, Violin Jean Le Franc and violoncello—John Barbirolli.

M. Koussevitzky, who has assumed permanent charge of the Boston Symphony Orchestra as a conductor has an original style, dynamic, yet never flamboyant and capable of making fine distinctions in tone productions, phrasing and interpretation of his several groups of instruments. This was at once apparent in the Handel Concerto where the ethereal beauty of the strings in melodies that charmed every ear was maintained throughout the seven themes in the movements of the composition. The last movement movement new beauties were discovered and given an eloquent interpretation.

Again in the Brahms symphony with which the program was closed the orchestra upheld every ideal of fitness, knowledge, both technical and inspirational, indicated to them by the great Russian violinist who has brought the Boston Symphony Orchestra back to its traditional place in the American orchestra.

Seldom has the familiar "Prelude to Lohengrin" by Wagner been as well played here as it was by the Boston orchestra. The engraved and diminutive were perfect in phrasing and form and at its close the audience recalled the conductor who insisted on sharing the applause with his men again and again.

In the composer Ravel could have heard the orchestral excerpts from "Daphnis et Chloe" yesterday played by the orchestra he would have been greatly delighted. M. Koussevitzky had the three episodes of the suite played practically as one, bringing out their shimmering tone colorings, exquisite phrasings and lingering melodies with meticulous care.

That the Russian leader is a master of Brahms was proven by his leadership of the symphony by that composer yesterday. The noble and dignified movement was handled with consummate skill. Many were specially pleased with the treatment of the adagio C minor in the finale, poetic and dainty, with its recurrent echoes prolonging the joy of the lovely passage.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

No doubt picturegoers occasionally wonder if the gems they see players wearing on the screen—the rings, the necklaces, brooches, bracelets and other trinkets—are genuine or belong to that class of cheap imitations known as "stage jewelry."

Many of them are imitations, particularly those set with very large "diamonds." But many, too, are real, so real they almost speak as one looks at them in the jewelry cabinets of r studio wardrobe.

These are the old-fashioned wedding rings the brooches and lockets of other days. It is easier to buy them out-right from pawnbrokers and dealers than from jewelers.

After all, it is scarcely more than a slightly altered version of the gay illustrated-song idea of those gay Station WRC on the floor below the auditorium.

The Earle has done it, the Fox has done it, and this week J. Virgil Huffmann, the well-known bridegroom, is achieving a clever effect with the same device while he plays selections from "Rose Marie" at the Palace.

At present children under 13 are admitted to the theaters when escorted by their guardians, but to special children's programs when unaccompanied.

MOTORS AND STEEL LEAD MARKET TO NEW RECORD

Auto Concern Turns over
657,000 Shares in Day,
Nearing 1916 Mark.

PRICES RISE GENERALLY

SPECIAL TO THE WASHINGTON POST.
New York, March 5.—With General Motors setting a terrific pace in a further rise to new record levels on an enormous turnover—approximately 657,000 shares—and heavy trading also in United States Steel common, which also rose sharply to a new 1928 maximum contributing largely to the total transaction, the New York Stock Exchange today appeared very nearly to the 3,000,000-share level.

Prices rose spiritedly over a broad part of the general list, and, despite considerable profit taking in the later session, which affected also the leaders, market gains ranging from 3 to 7 points were shown in the close.

Demand came principally from recent sellers for bear account, if the opinion of shrewd observers is to be relied upon, and the market was, in a word, bearing out the teaching of one of Wall street's old masters, which holds that one "should never buy stocks short when the sap begins to rise."

The dealing in Motors was at a pace during the first three hours, which gave promise of accounting for almost one-third of day's business, but on the down turn the trading in the premier automobile issues slackened very decidedly. Though not nearly so active in other directions, aside from Steel common, it was nevertheless on a large scale also in Overland, Hudson Motors, and many other prominent issues.

Little or no attention was given the matter of loans or outside conditions. On the contrary, technical conditions were the main force back of the rise, and it was the traders who had miscalculated in the recent period of weakness being made ready to pay for their short-sightedness.

General Motors' near-monopolization of speculative attention sent traders thumbing the old and musty records for data in which the turnover in a single issue was so large. The last took them back to December 21, 1916, the day of the so-called "peace leak" when Steel common, under heavy liquidation, changed hands to the extent of 800 shares in a five-hour session. Until then the day's change of trend in the fourth hour today, Motors seemed in a fair way to make a strong bid for that record.

The remarkable demonstration was staged by a coup by a well-known operator, long has been identified with movements in the market, and who is credited of late with having put the bear crowd through some fancy paces in other stocks. He is reputed to have got a line on the size of the short account and proceeded to precipitate the stampede of covering which has continued since Friday afternoon. It is estimated that between $300,000 and 400,000 shares of the stock bought on the rise since that time have been used in covering short commitments on stop-loss orders above 140.

Today the stock touched 148, 3/4 points above its previous 1928 high, and although it closed 1 1/2 under the top, was yet 21, net higher on the day.

Steel held rather better, finding but 3% under its summit and 2% higher on the session. The turnover here was 143,800 shares. At top levels the stock was up about 6 points from the low of last week, not including the 1% per cent dividend which was deducted in the meantime.

Of the active issues, Du Pont registered the biggest net gain of the day—7 points—although it finished 2 points in mid-session. Following long-established precedent, it proceeded to discount marketing in the transaction of its holdings of General Motors stock. Du Pont de Nemours holds 3,692,488 shares of motors common, carried on its books at the close of 1927, at a value of $19,774,000. At the top levels today such holdings had a market value of $30,000,000, or $471,114,224 in excess of the book value accorded by the holding company.

The short interest in many other stocks was taken in hand during the advance, first one issue and then another bounding ahead sharply as the screws were turned. Gold Dust was an example of that respect, and was followed by similar demonstrations in stocks like A. Myers, Amt., American Smelters, Montana Fuel, Argon, Graway Ward, American Can, Radio, Colorado Fuel, Victor Talking Machine and Overland, the retreat in the last mentioned being accelerated by reports of distinct improvement in the company's basic position.

Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky was among the prominent issues negotiating new high ground for the year, the turnover here being greater than at any time in 1928 and was accompanied by reference to the satisfaction rate of earnings at the moment. Buying was attributed largely to interests in close touch with the market, held that it is undervalued at current levels on the basis of earnings and its dividend record. The stock held within a mere fraction of the new top and ended the day 21 points above Saturday's final quotation.

Pullman, Pressed Steel Car and various others of the equipment group were decidedly active, and many finished with gains of 3 points or so. Railroad shares gained in the day's dealings, though good news brought advances of a point or more. Reading, New York Central and Canadian Pacific, Seaboard Air Line rallied smartly, and Cotton Belt sold 1 1/2 points higher on a single transaction.

Golden dollars advancing to 99.87, the highest price ever paid, were the only feature of the foreign exchange market. Slight foreign changes again were the rule in the European currencies, none of them being larger than half a point, except for 1-point decline in Poland. In the Far Eastern division yen were up slightly, others unchanged. South Americans again were firm but not active.

LADDIE, FAVORITE, WINS IN DRIVE AT NEW ORLEANS

Start Is Poor In Feature Event

Corposant Outruns 12 Plates to Win the Sixth Race.

Wildrake Wins From Long Shot by Half
Length in Fourth.

JEFFERSON PARK, NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (A.P.)—Laddie, ridden by Fred Collett, started in a drive on the last turn and won the feature program. He was heavily wagered on at the last moment, which caused his price to drop to 8-to-5 favorite. John Speed got the place with Flaherty third. The start was poor. Flaherty alone did not run for the world, and went lengths back of the field. Meanwhile John Speed and Laddie were fighting for the lead. Collett eased Laddie back, being content to let him mount slow to the stretch. In the final furlong, Laddie rallied to the front and in a drive won by half a length. John Speed took the place by two lengths from Flaherty.

Twelve platters competed in the sixth race. Corposant was the favorite, with Ramkin second and Honey Cooney third. Corposant came around the track in the stretch and won by three lengths. Ramkin took the place by two lengths from Flaherty.

Wildrake, heavily played, second choice, won the fourth race, a 6-furlong sprint, defeating the long shot, Denny Cooney, with Honey Fly third. Wildrake was away flying alone from the start. Laddie and in a drive won by half a length. John Speed took the place by two lengths from Flaherty.

The odds gelding began tiring in the last sixteenth, but managed to hold on to win by half a length Denny Cooney was second, a length in front of Honey Fly.

H. S. Cutt's Be Still, ridden by the promising apprentice Jockey J. J. McTague, moved in a romp in the third sprinter. Layton's King, a 2-year-old gelding, was third. Be Still ran into the lead early, set a fast pace and won by five lengths. Laddie came along and got the place by a length from Flaherty. The saddle slipped on Be Still's harness and Flaherty, who had the mount, pulled up.

The Parade Stock Farm's Lanqueau, not favorite in the betting, was an easy winner of the baby race, stepping the half mile in 0:50.2. Hoodies landed second and Paul and Paul third. Paul, third. Lanqueau jumped away to a fast lead, swerved out in the stretch, but was clear of the field and drew away to win by three lengths. Hoodies took the place by a head from Paul Bunyan. The latter suffered a lot of early interference.

Concannon Defeated In National Tourney

Chicago, March 5 (A.P.)—Pete Durocher, of Chicago, defeated Joseph Concannon, of Washington, 120 to 68, in a game marred by repeated safety play in the national pocket ball tournament tonight. It took 88 innings in the Chicagoan to win the match and seven innings to make his last two points.

Durocher had a high run of 25, and Concannon's best effort was 14. Concannon played 22 safeties, and Durocher was not far behind with 21.

INSTITUTE DEBATE NEAR

By F. W. PATTERSON.
Yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange was a quiet affair, as compared to the more exciting days of trading during last week.

The most interesting transaction during the session was the sale of a small lot of Washington Bellway & Electric common, which moved at 47¢ a 10-point drop from the previous sale of the security, and 10 points under the top price for the stock. The preferred continued to interest the traders, and, starting at 10½¢ on a turnover of 1,000 shares, closed the day on a basis of 10¢ odd lots at 10½¢.

National Mortgage & Investment preferred, coming out more or less reservedly in the past few weeks, showed considerable activity yesterday, last sold at 8½¢, a fraction higher than last Friday.

Sanitary Grocery preferred was unchanged, at 10½¢, but dropped back to 10½¢ on closing as a Capital Traktion, more or less in the limelight for several days, continued to show strength, and two lots changed hands at 11¢.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 5 (A.P.)—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe is handling less business than a year ago, says W. B. Storey, president, who thinks the railroad will show smaller earnings than the same period last year. He was still of the opinion he said that revenues for the first half of 1928 hardly would be as large as last year. The moisture situation in the winter which belated showed improvement in February, but remained in southern California was below normal. Passenger traffic was light, but not traffic, but a more cheerful feeling prevailed throughout the road's cotton territory.

Reo Motor Car Co. earned $23.6 a share in 1927 against $1.51 a share in 1926. Net profit rose $4,724,331 from $3,019,510.

January surplus of the St. Louis-Southeastern (Cotton Belt) was $156,405 after taxes and charges, against $163,81 in January, last year.

Retirement of more than $12,000,000 in bonds will be effected as part of a program for simplifying capital structure of Interstate Public Service Co. and reducing interest charges. An issue of $12,554,000 first mortgage and refunding 4½ per cent bonds which will provide the needed funds has been sold to the First National Bank of Halsey, Stuart & Co. Only three series of first mortgage and refunding bonds, compared with five previously, will be outstanding when the operation is completed. The company operates chiefly in Indiana.

Net profit of Marlin-Rockwell Corporation for 1927 declined to $961,088 from $12,134,394 the year before. This was equal to $2.70 a share, compared with $3.15 a share on the common, after preferred dividends in 1926. The preferred has been retired.

Federal Minning & Smelting Co. earned $23.6 a share on the common in 1927 against $35.95 a share in 1926.

Net earnings of Engineers Public Service Co. for the year ended January 31 were $11,517,362, an increase of $1,314,739 over the preceding twelve months.

Retirement of $1,777,000 of outstanding bonds of the Madison Square Garden Corporation today gave the successful "hot dog" a definite standing in the public's big business. The retired issue is being repaid at 8 per cent from the Mutual Life Insurance Co., on which interest and amortization are provided by funds for concessions for the sale of "hot dogs," programs and kindred commodities at sporting events, controlled by the garden.

$22,000 in Harriet Ayres Estate. Mrs. Harriet L. Ayres, died December 22, left an estate valued at $22,000, according to the petition for letters of administration filed yesterday in Probate Court by Stephen H. Holt, a grandson, Horace E. Ayres, who are named executors. The deceased was also survived by a granddaughter, Dorothy A. Ripley.

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

HAVING NOW NO ILLUSIONS ON THE VALUE OF AMERICAN TROOPS AND ALARMED BY THEIR RAPID ARRIVAL IN FRANCE, LUEDENDORFF DID NOT LIMIT HIS OBJECTIVES IN PLANNING THE GREAT "PEACE ASSAULT," BY WHICH HE HOPED TO WIN PARIS AND TERMINATE THE LONG STRUGGLE.

HE WANTED THE LINE OF THE MARNE BETWEEN EPINAY AND CHALONS AS THE FRUIT OF THE FIRST DAY'S ADVANCE. THE ATTACK WAS TO BE IN TWO SECTIONS.

THE FIRST SECTION HAD A FRONT OF 27 MILES, BETWEEN FOISSY, SOUTHEAST OF CHATEAU THIERRY, AND VIGNY, THE SECOND WAS A 26 MILE FRONT EAST OF RHEIMS, BETWEEN PRUNAY AND THE MAIN DE MASSISE. 30 DIVISIONS WERE INJECTED INTO THE ATTACK.

LUDENDORFF'S NEW FRONT OF ATTACK

RHEIMS CHALONS

LUDENDORFF HAD A LARGE NUMBER OF TANKS WHICH HE ALLOTTED TO THE AREA EAST OF RHEIMS, WHERE THE DOWNS OF CHAMPAGNE MADE THE GOING-EASIER FOR MACHINES WHICH DID NOT POSSESS THE VERSATILITY OF ALLIED TANKS.

WITH CHARACTERISTIC THOROUGHNESS LUDENDORFF PLANNED EVERY MOVEMENT OF THE ATTACK, BUT UNLIKE HIS EARLIER BATTLES, THE ALLIES WERE FULLY AWARE OF WHERE AND WHEN HIS BLOW WOULD FALL, A FACTOR THAT CONTRIBUTED TO HIS DEFEAT.

The District government was informed yesterday that the tax on electrical impulses that the poles, conduits, lamps and overhead wires and other movable mechanical equipment of the Potomac Electric Power Co. can not be taxed as real estate and that an assessment of $100,000 is to be made.

The Appellate Court found that these things are to be taxed, if at all, as personal property, just as are the boilers and generators, and that it would require quite a stretch of the imagination to place such things in the same category as real estate and tax them as such.
